The ladies were very impressed by the knowledge of our students in their quiz and congratulations to the students from Banksia, Ella W, Chelsea, Ryan, Travis and Jordan P who won the 2015 CWA Quiz. Thank you to the Year 5 students who completed posters on Italy to display in the Library. The CWA ladies will be displaying posters by Imogen, Emma and Giovanna at their Group International Day. The ‘Guiding tenets’ of HOW2Learn

Much has been written about learning in a 21st-century context. Many recent policies and initiatives reflect a desire to do things differently and to address the need to prepare our students for their future. Accordingly, HOW2Learn has been developed in response to the current and future learning needs of students in the 21st century.

- Real-life learning
- Complex but vital
- Mental wellbeing
- Learning powerfully and purposefully
- Success at school and success in life
- Social and personal responsibility

We know that young people need to build the emotional, social, ethical and mental resources to enjoy challenges and cope with uncertainty, and it is obvious that things need to change in order for schools to be more in step with the needs of society. The following principles frame all further thinking:

1. Real-life learning: Education is about enabling young people to take their place in the world confidently, actively and successfully. We should ensure that what we do in classrooms does not disconnect them from the realities of their world.

2. Mental wellbeing: All students can become more resourceful and resilient if they are increasingly self-aware and are equipped with ways to face adversity and challenge.

3. Social and personal responsibility: Education is about providing the conditions for young people to develop a mindset whereby they make choices that benefit themselves, as well as other individuals, society as a whole and their environment.

4. Success at school and success in life: A balanced and well-rounded education equips students with the skills and capabilities to thrive within and beyond educational settings. It encompasses both learning for now and learning for life.

5. Learning powerfully and purposefully: All learners can behave more intelligently though developing and utilizing a repertoire of effective learning dispositions and habits.

6. Complex but vital: It will take consistent focus, collective will and determination over time to develop a transformative culture of learning in our schools. It will also require open-mindedness and the acceptance that we do not know all the answers to our questions; although it does not mean the questions are not worthy of deep consideration and innovative thinking.
